Columbia Restaurant & the Gonzmart Family’s Wine Philosophy

At the Columbia Restaurant we believe the relationship of wine and food is an essential part of the dining experience and that two aspects of elegant dining deserve specialized attention: The preparation and serving of the cuisine and the selection of the finest wines and stemware to accompany it.

In keeping with our tradition of serving the most elegant Spanish dishes, we have chosen to feature a collection of Spain’s finest wines and a selection of American wines, sparkling whites and Champagne. Our wines are stored in our wine cellar in a climate controlled environment at 55° Fahrenheit with 70% humidity.

The Columbia Restaurant’s wine list represents 4th and 5th generation, owner and operators, Richard and Andrea Gonzmart’s lifetime involvement in their family’s business. Their passion for providing guests the best wines from Spain, as well as their personal favorites from California, are reflected in every selection. They believe wines should be affordable and represent great value.

Columbia Restaurant’s variety of wines illustrates the depth of knowledge and concern the Gonzmart family possesses, by keeping abreast of the wine market in the United States and by traveling to Spain. This is all done for the enjoyment of our guests.

We are confident that you will find the perfect wine to make your meal a memorable one.

Wines of Spain

Spain is an ancient wine-producing country and produces nearly as much wine as the number-one and number-two wine producers in the world: Italy and France. Spanish wine is at least three thousand years old. This beautiful country with its extreme contrasts in climate, and soil produces a wide variety of wine: from delicate fine Sherries to rich dessert wine, old vintage wines to strong and hearty reds.

Today, Spain’s winemakers are adapting modern practices while also respecting the country’s honored winemaking traditions. In addition, new wine laws inspire visionary producers to experiment with traditional and international grape varieties in regions never before known for quality or in unexplored territory. The resulting wines are rich and lively, crafted in styles that are recognizably “Spanish” and complement a wide range of today’s cuisines. This new world of wines in an old-world setting offers fertile ground for enjoyable exportation.

This wine list illustrates the depth of knowledge and concern the Gonzmart family possess’, by keeping abreast of the wine market in Europe by traveling to Spain two or three times a year. Each Spanish wine region can be defined in its elevation and its proximity to the ocean or the sea. To break Spain’s geography into its autonomous regions we have broken the country into climatic categories.
Understanding Spanish Wines

The wines of Spain can be divided into several regions, each one very different from the rest. Each wine region can be defined in its elevation and in its proximity to the ocean or the sea. To get a more thorough understanding of the places, vineyards, grapes and styles of wines, the country can be divided into 7 climatic categories:

- Green Valley
- Duero River Valley
- Ebro River Valley
- The Meseta
- The Mediterranean Coast
- Andalucía
- The Islands

Within these climatic categories are smaller regions referred to as denominaciones (similar to the French appellation) whose wine is regulated for quality according to specific laws. The denominación is part of a wider hierarchy of quality-graded descriptors for Spanish wine regions, as follows (highest quality first):

- Denominación de Origen or DO: official classification for wines which follow strict production standards.
- Vino de Calidad Producido en Región Determinada or VCPRD: another official appellation system following new standards established by the European Union.
- Denominación de Pago or DO de Pago: a recent classification aspiring to the very highest standards with extremely strict geographical criteria.
- Denominación de Origen Calificada or DOCa (Catalan: Denominació d’Origen Qualificada or DOQ): another system which reflects a constant level of quality. Only used by a few appellations.
- Vino de la Tierra or VdT: table wines of a designated origin.

Reading a Spanish Wine Label

Key Aging Terms

In Spanish law, aging requirements vary from red to white wines; one word can mean two different things when referring to Spanish wines.

Red Wines

Joven
A young wine with little or no barrel

Crianza
This is an aging term which tells you the minimum amount of time a wine has been aged— you will always find this on a bottle of red wine.

Mature
A wine that has been aged

White Wines

Joven
A young wine with little or no barrel

Aging Terms

The region the wine was produced in.

Wines

Don Cesar
The name of the wine.

Estate Bottle
This term means that all of the grapes used for this particular wine were grown on the property of the bodega (winery) that produced it.

Don Cesar
The name of the winery (Bodega), that produced the wine.

Viña Mambrilla
The name of the winery (Bodega), that produced the wine.

Terms

“2000”
The year the wine was made, known as the vintage.

“Ribera del Duero”
The region the wine was produced in.

“Crianza”
This is an aging term which tells you the minimum amount of time a wine has been aged— you will always find this on a bottle of red wine.

“Estate Bottle”
This term means that all of the grapes used for this particular wine were grown on the property of the bodega (winery) that produced it.

“Red Wine”
If a wine is produced from one variety of grape it will most commonly be noted on the label, such as a Tempranillo or Albariño.

“White Wine”
If a wine is produced from one variety of grape it will most commonly be noted on the label, such as a Tempranillo or Albariño.
Crianza  Aged a minimum of two years with six months to one year in barrel.

Reserva  Three years old with one year in barrel

Gran Reserva  Five years old with two years in barrel; aged a minimum of three years in bottle.

These wines were selected to honor the memory of Cesar Gonzmart. Through his love of music and food and his remarkable ability to make them both magical and memorable, Cesar Gonzmart kept the spirit of the Columbia Restaurant alive.

About the label: As he dined at the Columbia Restaurant, world famous artist, LeRoy Neiman, was so inspired by the performance of Cesar Gonzmart’s Magic Violin that he sketched this animated portrait capturing the essence of Cesar.

Adelita

Adela Hernandez Gonzmart had long been admired as the Matriarch of the Columbia Restaurant and Ybor City. Her love and devotion to her family, her heritage and the arts has long been the secret to the success of the Columbia. Through Adela’s culinary skills the traditional, nearly century-old recipes have continued at the Columbia Restaurant, founded in 1905 by her grandfather, Casimiro Hernandez, Sr. These wines stand in memory of our mother Adela, the wonderful woman they were made to honor.

13  Adelita Chardonnay® 2015, Penedes

This outstanding Chardonnay is brilliant in color and a complex bouquet with good intensity.

Toasty overtones derived from maturing French Oak cask. Smooth and very balanced with tones of vanilla. Produced by Jean Leon Winery in memory of our mother and grandmother, Adela Gonzmart – she would have loved this bottling!
The Green Valley of Spain

Green Spain has been inhabited since the dawn of time and everywhere you go you will see fragments of past civilizations. The northern and northwester portion of Spain, exposed to the northern Atlantic, can be cool to cold, wet, and green – thus the name, Green Spain. This area stretches from Galicia to the Pyrenees, though only Bierzo, Monterrei and Rías Baixas are wine regions of great note in Green Spain. All the regions are joined by a double boundary, the coastline to the north with its cliffs, beaches, tiny ports and major cities and the mountain range to the south with its snow-capped peaks and hidden valleys.

The cool and misty climate necessitates a focus upon earlier ripening grapes, especially white varieties. But the advantage conferred upon this sort of climate is that aromatic varieties are virtually guaranteed to be, well, aromatic.

Bierzo

Quality winemaking in Bierzo is too new for us to really know exactly what will happen with the area’s occasionally remarkable wines. Vineyards are found as high as 2,300 feet, with a mix of chalk and clay in the elevated vineyards and alluvial soils in the lower vineyards. Bierzo’s predominant local variety grape is the Mencia, descended from grapes brought by the Roman settlers and widely regarded as the immediate precursor to the Cabernet Franc. Nearly all of the vines are over 30 years old, with a preponderance of vines over 100 years old.

Rías Baixas
(The Wine of the Sea)

The Southwestern part of the region of Galicia (just north of Portugal, along the Atlantic coast), is where green, misty hills are punctuated by sharply defined estuaries. Rías Baixas, is a home to a superb wine region called Rías Baixas. This is the area from which the famed Albariño wines come from. Albariño, considered a native vine of Galicia has impressed the wine world with its delicate and aromatic fruit.

An Albariño of great personality, with a striking and fragrant varietal character. It charms the nose with intense floral, fruity and balsamic aromas and delights the mouth with its depth, elegance and freshness. It is a perfect blend of structure and silkiness, complexity and exuberance, longevity and immediate enjoyment.

Valdeorras

Valdeorras is the eastern most wine zone in Galicia. It is situated in the province of Orense and covers an area of 1400 hectares. Garnacha and the white Falomino, as well as the indigenous, white Godello grape, are extensively planted. If carefully vinified, the wines can be aromatic with an alcoholic strength between 12 and 13%. Prior to the phylloxera epidemic of the 19th century, the indigenous Godello vine was heavily planted and is only just recently starting to make a comeback in the region. The Mencia grape is also starting to gain ground due to the fruity and easy drinking red wines that it produces. The Valdeorras wine region consists of 43 vineyards (Bodegas), which produce 4 million liters of wine annually.

The Duero River Valley of Spain

The Duero River Valley has been the seat of power for much of Spain’s history. The area hosts extremely elevated but very workable vineyards. Vega Sicilia and Pesquera are two of the famous Spanish wineries residing in the Duero River Valley. Other upstart sub-regions, such as Toro and Rueda are on the short lists of anyone trying to keep up with emerging Spanish brands.

The Duero valley averages about 2600 ft. above sea level which makes for a relatively short growing season. Temperatures reach extremes during the season, with very hot summer days up to 104˚ but then falls sharply at night. These extremes however, seem to be a positive factor when it comes to making high quality wine. It is widely believed that these conditions combine with the mountain air of the Duero to help Tinto Fino to retain more acidity than Tempranillo wines from other parts of Spain, and thereby provide the resulting wines with great structure and longevity.

In Castilla y León the land devoted to vineyards decreased greatly in the last three decades of the 20th century. Thanks to adoption of more modern techniques, the 56,337 hectares (139,210 acres) currently devoted to vineyards are turning out vastly better wines than those the region traditionally produced. Now rivaling in quality the wines of La Rioja, they are increasingly known even beyond the borders of Spain.

High above sea level in the region of Castilla y León, Cigales is ideally suited to growing Tempranillo, Garnacha and Verdejo grapes. Red wine production has increased as producers in the area have begun to emulate those in the Duero Valley. The climate is hot and dry in the summer, wet and cool in winter. The vineyards are planted at an average altitude of around 2,500 ft. Much of the soil consists of limestone beneath large, flat rocks that retain heat. This soil composition is often considered to be ideal for Tempranillo or Tinto del País as it is known locally.

Ribera del Duero

The region is about two hours north of Madrid in the province of Castilla and León, stretching sixty eight miles along the banks of the Duero River. The original grapes were cultivated and made by the Romans. The D.O. is home to Spain’s most famous wineries, Vega Sicilia and Pesquera. The grape most used is the local Tinto País (Tempranillo). This region, too, has seen some amazing changes in the past decade. Ribera del Duero has enjoyed official appellation status only since 1982, but growth in the area has been phenomenal. Quality is such that Ribera del Duero is challenging Rioja, aiming to become the country's premier red-wine region. The grape of Ribera del Duero is the Tinto Fino, a local clone of Tempranillo, although Cabernet, Malbec, and Merlot are also allowed within the appellation. Ribera del Duero is often more tannic and linear than its cousin, Rioja.
Alejandro Fernandez personifies the mercurial 10th-Century Spanish experience. Since 1982, fermentation has been de-stemmed whole berries only, maceration varying from 12 to 20 days. The unclarified wine goes directly to small oak after pressing. Barricas are an astute blend of American, Spanish and French oak, custom-cured and made in Spain’s finest coopers. Filtration and cold stabilization are not practiced. Wines produced by Alejandro Fernández are made exclusively from the difficult, quick-maturing Tempranillo variety, of which he is the acknowledged master. We are very proud of their friendship and the relationship we formed over the years.

Pesquera

In 1972 Alejandro and his wife, Esperanza, licensed their bodega in the town of Pesquera in Ribera del Duero. The estate now has over 500 acres of mature vineyards, situated on a variety of different soils. Vinification includes total de-stemming, maceration for up to twenty days and maturation in small oak barrels. The wines are neither filtered nor cold-stabilized.

Janus

The 1982 vintage was one of the best in living memory. This lead Alejandro Fernández to carrying out a unique experience: making two different wines from the same grape. The first wine, which was made in the traditional way, was only sold in Spain. The second, however, was the first Pesquera wine to be exported and opened up the way to the winery’s world-wide renown in the wine world. But Alejandro wanted to go just a little bit further. He mixed the last 2,000 liters of each kind of wine in equal measures and placed the resulting wine to “rest” for three years in old American oak barrels. The end result was a totally unique, extraordinarily complex and balanced wine bottled in 1986 that was different from the rest. The wine was named “Janus” after the Roman god of doors, thresholds (arrivals and departures), communication routes and anything that has a beginning. Janus is a two-faced god who looks towards both the past and the future, just like the wine that carries his name and merges together ancient and modern winemaking techniques perfectly while revealing the best of each.
Janus Gran Reserva 1991, Pesquera
1.5 Liter

Janus was named for the Roman god of thresholds, it is a designation reserved for rare lots displaying unique personality and exceptional age worthiness. This powerhouse red is still young with loads of vibrant red fruity flavors and notes of violets and cedar. Highly allocated!

Janus Gran Reserva 2003, Pesquera

Saddle leather and musty black currants on the nose. Medium bodied, balanced, smooth and unique. The flavor profile is an old oak and leather, influenced by spicy plum with notes of thyme and black pepper.

Janus Gran Reserva 1995, Pesquera

Vanilla and coffee flavors are rich and dominant in this lush red. Kirsch and herbal notes chime in, submerged under firm tannins, then surface again on the finish.

Dehesa la Granja

“Where time takes on flavour and memory becomes aroma…”

The Dehesa La Granja Winery, Alejandro Fernández’ third winery, is located in the province of Zamora in an area that was once known as “Tierra del Vino”, the Land of Wine. It was formerly dedicated to producing wine and then to breeding fighting bulls, until Alejandro Fernández refurbished it and dedicated it once again to its original purpose. The buildings include a small trial bullring to test young bulls’ fighting spirit.

Dehesa la Granja is no longer a dream and has become one of the most beautiful properties in the winemaking world. It is a winery that respects the environment and is integrated into it.

Bodegas Arzuaga-Navarro

Founded at the beginning of the 1990 by the Arzuaga-Navarro family, the wine cellars named after them, are a fine sample of dedication and passion for land and wine. Florentino Arzuaga is an enthusiast of the boundless horizons and wide open spaces of Castile where there is still room for nature and wildlife to exist undisturbed. Here, not far from the silent-running waters of the Duero river, Florentino bought an estate which due to its large size has horizons of its own. Later came the vines, the winery and, finally, the wine. Florentino has sought a red wine with structure, elegant, assertive and complete at the same time. Florentino Arzuaga has the tenacious spirit of an entrepreneur coupled with an aesthetic and perfectionist sensitivity. The brothers of Cillar de Sillos use wine-making systems based on experience gained from the traditions of their land, from their own work and technology. They believe the quality of the wine depends substantially on it being able to develop well in the bottle. Vega Sicilia

In 1864, Eloy Lecanda founded the winery that symbolizes the golden legend of Spanish red wine. Throughout its long history, this winery has belonged to different owners, but has always maintained an unquestionable personality, making concentrated, mature, generous and extremely elegant wines.

In 1982, El Enebro S.A., a company owned by the Álvarez Mezquíriz family, acquired the winery and the vineyards from the Venezuelan businessman Miguel Neumann. From that year onwards, the family, with David Álvarez and his children Pablo, Jesús David, María José, Emilio, Juan Carlos, Elvira and Marta, have developed a policy of harmonization of present innovative techniques required by the wine sector with the traditional winemaking process. The vineyard area has been extended and the vineyards and vines, which were almost half a century old, have continued to be planted in rotation.

This legendary bodega along the Duero River remains in a class by itself. Vega Sicilia’s red wines have garnered awards, critical praise and high prices ever since the grapes were first planted on the estate in 1864. The varietal mix is usually 60% Tempranillo, 20% Cabernet Sauvignon, 10% Merlot, 10% Malbec. Vega Sicilia continues to be recognized as Spain’s finest red wine.

Unico

This is the reference wine of Vega Sicilia, although it shares its special character with the rest of the wines from the winery. It comes from the older vines on the estate and is made with the varieties of tempranillo and more cabernet sauvignon than merlot. Although it is old, the red wine maintains its liveliness thanks to its good acidity level compensated by solid alcohol content. It has an intense ripe cherry color, with the lively edge of a wine that is always at its best. The aroma prevails with hints of toast from the wood, and touches of hazelnut from its oxidative evolution from its years in the cask. It has generous tastes of old but clean wood, with dry tannins that are pleasantly embittered by the oak, together with the sensation of its light sweetness of alcohol. It is a pedigree wine with a long, lasting taste. The King of Spain is only allowed one case of “Unico” a year.

Unico Reserva Especial

Unico Reserva Especial is a non-vintage super-blend, assembled from the best lots of the very best years. It is a blend of three or four different vintages, and the average age of the wines used is usually at least 30 years old.

In Vega Sicilia, this wine is the synergy between the noble character of the oak and the pedigree of the grape. It is the wine that brings together the best of each vintage in order to make a true designer red wine. The Reserva Especial has a dark cherry tone that is opaque and full of color. It is elegant on the nose, with a fine spicy bouquet. Time in the bottle has given it its roundness, smoothness and strength, leaving its conclusive mark on the palate.

Only the best Único wines are used to produce Reserva Especial, a combination of vintages, virtues, experiences and feelings - "An eternal surprise."
The non-vintage Unico Reserva Especial, bottled in 2004, is a bottle blend of the 1985, 1990 and 1991 vintages. It is as spectacular as this cuvée always tends to be. Valbuena

Valbuena is the youngest of Vega Sicilia’s red wines, a "fifth year" wine made from grapes from younger vines, a wine therefore less concentrated in its structure. Valbuena has the same colouring as its older brother, the Vega Sicilia "Unico", a garnet-cherry red with an orangeish edge and brick-red reflections, the result of an excellent evolution in cask and bottle, one of the specific traits of the red wines of Vega Sicilia. The personality of Valbuena is defined by the persistence of varietal traits, revealed for example in the ripe red fruity bouquet. In the mouth, it posses all the vinous-fruity complexity of a fine reserva.

549 Valbuena 1998 500
The dense ruby/purple-colored 1998 Valbuena reveals a deep, sweet nose of black fruits intermixed with earth, leather, smoke, and fruit cake. There is sensational texture on the palate, seamlessly integrated tannin and acidity, and moderate quantities of oak.

550 Valbuena 1998 995

465 Valbuena 1999 360
Medium body and pure black currant, kirsch, new saddle leather, and sweet vanilla notes.

483 Valbuena 2000 355
Bright medium ruby. Plum, mocha, tobacco nutty oak aromas. Sweet, round, firmly structured; concentrated, ripe flavors of raspberry/redcurrant/tobacco; bright harmonious acidity. Youthfully clenched flavors of cherry cola/sweet tobacco/herbs.

175 Valbuena 2001 350
Opulent on the nose with full aromas of wild red fruits blended with oak. On the palate it’s rich and powerful with a black fruit character, the finish is amazingly persistent with ripe grape and velvety oak tannins.

836 Valbuena 2003 50
Purple-colored and super-fragrant with aromas of pain grille, pencil lead, black currant, and blackberry liqueur. This is followed by a powerful, concentrated wine with an opulent palate-feel, layers of flavor, and beautiful integration of oak, tannin, and acidity, no mean feat in the torrid 2003 vintage. Supple, sweet, and long, this superb effort will evolve for another 4-6 years and drink well through 2025.

94 Points, Wine Advocate; 93 points, International Wine Cellar.

Valbuena 2004

This maturing red is rich and lively, with raisin, dried cherry, coffee and tobacco notes. The tannins are still chewy. A bit rustic, but shows depth.

89 points, Wine Spectator.

Valbuena 2005

This plush, balanced red shows blackberry, currant, licorice and chocolate flavors, with juicy acidity and just enough tannins.

Valbuena 2007

Toast and espresso flavors mingle with black cherry, licorice and tar notes in this smoky red. Shows light tannins and a slightly herbal finish. Harmonious and graceful.

Valbuena 2008

This supple red shows a solid balance of fresh fruit and mature flavors of tobacco and leather, Featuring well-integrated tannins with lively acidity and a finish of vanilla and spice.

Valbuena 2009

Tobacco, cedar and sanguine notes mingle with dried cherry, spice and orange peel flavors in this firm red. The floral finish blooms pleasantly, showing harmony and depth.

Wines of Pablo Alvarez
Bodegas Alión

The Alión story began in 1986, when the Álvarez family decided to create a winery which, with its own vineyards, was to produce a wine with a philosophy and an identity different and independent from that of Bodegas Vega Sicilia. Thus, the possibility of making the wine in the Vega Sicilia installations was discarded; the Álvarez’s did not wish to create a brand that might be considered as a second wine from the mythical name.

Toro

More fine wines from Vega Sicilia from the Toro region.

Bodegas y Viñedos Pintia

It is no secret that Vega Sicilia has been working for a number of years on a new wine – from Toro, the “next big thing” in Spanish red wine appellations. Known to some under the codename ‘ALQUIRIZ’, the wine (and winery) finally has a definitive name. PINTIA. The Vega group began researching the area in 1997, with experimental vinifications and judicious purchases of top vineyard sites, half of which are already planted with mature 25 to 45 year old vines. The estate now possesses 96 hectares of land, including a state-of-the-art vinification and ageing facility. The 2001 vintage is the first judged worthy of release, in a limited quantity of 80,000 bottles.

Deliciously aromatic, with notes of mocha and violet to the fore. Densely textured with firm tannins, this splendid wine will continue to improve over the next five years.
Floral and spicy aromas lead to flavors of blackberry, coffee bean, licorice and tar in this graceful red.

A solid wall of tannins conceals the savory flavors of underbrush, smoke and dried herbs. A core of cherry and floral notes emerges at the finish.

Expresso and bitter chocolate notes frame flavors of plum preserves, dried fig and anise in this dense red. Powerful and austere, but deep. 91 points, Wine Spectator

This red is firm yet fresh, with orange peel acidity driving the bright cherry, herbal and licorice flavors. Tannins are muscular, supporting savory forest floor and gamey notes.

Tobacco leather and tea flavors frame the core of cherry and dried fig notes in this red, with firm tannins and orange peel acidity showing an austere character. 91 Points, Wine Spectator

Intense red and dark berry scents, along with suggestions of toasty oak, cigar box and vanilla. Sweet and focused on the palate, offering juicy cherry and blackberry flavors that open up on the back half. Closes smoky, youthfully tannic and long.

The joint vision of two great names in the wine world, Rothschild and Vega Sicilia of La Rioja.

Smoke, graphite, blackberry liqueur, blueberries, violets, and spicy oak jump from the glass. Terrific purity and a full body that offers multiple layers. "Wow"—Richard Gonzmart.

This modern red marries toast and coffee flavors to ripe plum and blackberry notes. The Texture is generous and plush. Balanced and fresh.

The nose is very smoky with plenty of sweet spices, hints of smokey bacon and cereals of roasted corn. Full bodied and concentrated with pungent oak related flavors. 94 Points, Wine Advocate

PS is only made in the best vintages from 80 to 100 year old vines, spending 20 months in French oak. Drop dead gorgeous notes of black fruits, toasty oak, lead pencil and liquid violets. Full bodied with a huge finish. 94 Points, Wine Advocate

Aromas of well ripened black fruit, licorice and ink along with minerals and spices provided by French Oak. Silky tannins tell us of a robust and structured wine of considerable elegance and finesse. The huge power of the wine and wood elements are perfectly integrated.

Laden with cherry preserve and caramel notes, and shamelessly endowed with an American oak coconut and spice edge. Broad, coating tannins turn the tongue a deep shade of purple. A great full wine of force and personality.

40 to 80 year old vines. Aged 16 months in 50% American Oak and 50% French Oak. On the nose intense fruit aromas with wood in the background. Liqorice, black fruits and roasted coffee, along side spices and fresh tobacco. Will gain complexity over the years.

Mariano Garcia, winemaker at the legendary Vega Sicilia for almost two decades, is now the winemaker at Bodegas Leda in Tudela de Duero. Leda is produced from small plots of very old Tempranillo from the local clone called Aragones (the age of vines always exceeds 50 years and some are even pre-phylloxera, 100 years old!) Leda is a world class wine that ranks with the very best in Spain. Aging is in 50% new French Oak and 50% one year old casks for 12 to 14 months. Further aging takes place in bottle for 4 to 6 months before release.

This solid red delivers blackberry and blueberry flavors, with plenty of vanilla and smokey oak with very firm tannins.
In October 2001 in my travels visiting the great wineries of Spain one of the highlights was discovering this jewel located in the Duero river valley at Tudela. Located a few miles from the city of Valladolid but due to it’s geographical location and local politics Mauro does not qualify for the Ribera del Duero DO. But it didn’t matter as this small producer of only about 160,000 bottles earned wide world reputation for it quality in a contemporary style, sort of like the super Tuscan reds from Italy. Mauro was a creation in the 70’s of Luciano Suarez, an architect Felix Choque, cousin of the famed winemaker Mariano Garcia of Vega Sicilia fame. Mariano has always been the spiritual force behind the winery with his sons taking over the day to day operations and winemaking here. The super rare and delicious Terreus is only produced in outstanding years with a maximum production of 8,000 bottles.

Sardón del Duero

Sardón del Duero has a long history of winemaking. As far back as 2,000 years ago, there is strong evidence of grape growing and winemaking by the Romans. Located just outside of the more famous region of Ribera del Duero, the wines of Sardón del Duero are also based around Tinto Fino and traditional Bordeaux varietals such as Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot, Cabernet Franc, and Petit Verdot.

Sardón del Duero does not benefit from the constancy of climate in the Southern part of the country and experienced dramatic shifts in temperatures and climatic conditions throughout the year. The winters are quite cold, with temperatures as low as 64° Fahrenheit, and the summers are hot and very dry, with lower than average rainfall than the rest of Spain. Altitude is between 750 and 950 meters and the soil is made up of clay alternated in many parts by sheets of limestone and harder chalk.

Rueda

While red wines are produced here it’s only the white wines that matter. Indeed, it’s one vine in particular, Verdejo, which produces wines of great crispness and occasionally of wonderful richness and texture. Other white grapes are grown here as well: Viura is used for blending; Sauvignon Blanc is utilized for aromatics; and Palomino is grown here because, not so long ago, Rueda wines were all rancio in style, and the oxidized style lent itself better to the Palomino grape. But Marques de Riscal, assisted by Emile Peynaud, led a charge to create a fresh white wine and saw an affinity between the grapes Verdejo, Sauvignon Blanc, and Viura. Others have been emboldened by Verdejo’s success, and many believe that Verdejo deserves to be seen on its own.

Toro

Toro is located further along the Duero River. This once forgotten DO is exploding. Manuel Fariña brought it to prominence a few decades ago with excellent wines at fantastic prices, and seemingly everyone with an ego and a fat wallet has decided to try their hand as well. The massive character of Toro’s full, plush and sometimes overpowering Tempranillo-based wine is the result of the warm conditions, ideal exposures, and very friable soils. But the elevation, as with Spain’s other top spots, gives the wine structure, relative elegance, and, it is hoped, ageability. The word “Toro” means “bull” and it aptly describes the robust character of these reds. Toro may be the next big thing for Spanish wine.

Plush and polished, this modern-style red delivers ripe plum and blackberry fruit framed by toasty oak, with well-integrated tannins and a spicy finish.

Elias Mora V2 Premium 2005

Deep purple-hued, it delivers an aromatic profile reminiscent of First Growth Bordeaux. Toasty new oak, vanilla, spice box, mineral, espresso, scorched earth, assorted black fruits, and licorice all make an appearance. Sweetly-fruited, full-bodied, and opulent, this length, impeccably balanced effort demands a decade of cellaring and will go on to provide pleasure through 2040.

Bodegas y Viñedos Pintia

It is no secret that Vega Sicilia has been working for a number of years on a new wine – from Toro, the “next big thing” in Spanish red wine appellations. Known to some under the codename ‘ALQUIRIZ’, the wine (and winery) finally has a definitive name. PINTIA. The Vega group began researching the area in 1997, with experimental vinifications and judicious purchases of top vineyard sites, half of which are already planted with mature 25 to 45 year old vines. The estate now possesses 96 hectares of land, including a state-of-the-art vinification and ageing facility. The 2001 vintage is the first judged worthy of release, in a limited quantity of 80,000 bottles.

Tierra de Léon

Tierra de Léon is in south of the province of Léon, in Castile-Leon region. The area attained its D.O. status on July 27th, 2007. Grape cultivation was probably introduced by the ancient Romans. The area benefited from being at the crossroads of two important routes: The Way of Saint James, the pilgrimage route running east to west from France to Santiago de Compostela, and the Ruta de la Plata, running north–south between the silver mines of the Cantabrian coast and the southern port of Cadiz.

Around the 10th century, the main economic activities of the region were cereal production and milling, along with grape growing and winemaking, which was practiced in the monasteries of different religious orders. Production increased steadily over the centuries until 1887 which is when the phylloxera virus destroyed most of the vineyards of the area. Production did not pick up again until the 1920s.

In 1985, a group of producers applied for DO status based on the promotion of the local autochthonous grape variety known as Prieto picudo.

“Where time takes on flavour and memory becomes aroma…”

The Dehesa La Granja Winery, Alejandro Fernández’s third winery is located in the province of Zamora in an area that was once known as “Tierra del Vino”, the Land of Wine.

It was formerly dedicated to producing wine and then to breeding fighting bulls, until Alejandro Fernández refurbished it and dedicated it once again to its original purpose. The buildings include a small trial bullring to test young bulls’ fighting spirit.

Dehesa la Granja is no longer a dream and has become one of the most beautiful properties in the winemaking world. It is a winery that respects the environment and is integrated into it.

The Ebro River Valley of Spain

The Ebro River Valley is where the Cantabrian Mountains, or the Sierra de Cantábria, are located. Mountains shelter some of Spain’s most important vineyards, including those in Rioja and Navara. Farther south, Calatayud, Campo de Borja and Cariñena offer great value, and to the east, the Pyrenees are mostly forgotten for wine growing. The only DO immediately south of the Pyrenees is Somontano where the rare Moristel grape is charming some with its easy ways, along with Tempranillo, Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot and others.

The hills, valleys, nooks, and crannies among the mountains hold nearly endless opportunity. For now, the money is on Rioja, the traditional area of quality, and Navarra, the traditional area of quantity.

In the foothills of the Sistema Ibérico, the less-known and limestone-rich DO’s of Campo de Borja, Calatayud, and Cariñena offer great value, if only from a handful of focused producers at the moment. And to the east, Somontano, too is starting to look like a sure thing. Cabernet is the surprising king, but Chardonnay, Garnacha, Merlot, Moristel, and Tempranillo have all offered exciting wines in the past few years.

Getaruako Txakolina

This DO was created in 1990 and covers around 200 hectares of vineyards, down from over 100 hectares at the turn of the century. However, wine had been traditionally made in this manner for hundreds of years and was popular from the middle ages up to the end of the 19 century, when wines were devastated by phylloxera. There are now 17 wineries registered in this DO located on the coast of the Bay of Biscay.

Calatayud

When Calatayud achieved DO status in 1990, it became Aragon’s second largest quality wine-producing region after Cariñena. Since then, it has been upgrading and perfecting its wines with both cooperative and private bodegas undertaking progressive improvements. There has been considerable investment in new technology, new winemaking systems and vineyard research. Thanks to all of these factors, the Calatayud wines are now beginning to show their true potential.

5G Garnacha 2015

The Torres Family has been making wine for 5 generations. As a tribute to Garnacha and our family heritage, we selected 5 special lots from the region of Campo de Borja and created this exquisite blend. Fragrant and sensual with pronounced aromas of strawberry, red currant and raspberry, framed by notes of thyme and rosemary.

Cariñena

The Cariñena wine region is situated in the province of Zaragoza and consists of 60 vineyards which produce 72.6 million liters of wine annually. It is one of the oldest protected growing areas in Europe, the DO having been created in 1932. The traditional robust, high alcohol content wines are still produced for local consumption, but now fruitier, lighter and well balanced wines are also produced in response to the tastes and preferences of the average export consumer.

Navarra

From generally oxidized rosés to full-bodied reds, the transition in Navarra’s winemaking has been sudden and overwhelming. Garnacha, the workhorse rosé grape now is less than 40% of plantings, compared with 90% in the 1980’s. Its place has been taken by the Spanish Tempranillo, and, equally excitingly, by Cabernet Sauvignon and Merlot. Now, after a frenzied seesaw, Garnacha is finding favour in red wines with producers who are prepared to crop low, and to use the fruit of old vines. Navarra's winemaking regions fall into five zones: Tierra de Estella, Valdizarbe, Baja Montaña, Ribera Alta and Ribera Baja.

There are some very dynamic families and producers in Navarra, and great value, as well as surprising wines.

Rioja

Rioja remains the benchmark of Spanish wines, as it has for two centuries or more. There is not one true style of Rioja; instead, several versions are valid. The ancient style of Rioja exemplified by oxidative red, white and rosé wines, may not be to everyone’s taste, but the mode remains legitimate, if unusual. The more modern school, with labels that came forward in the 1960’s to the 1980’s, emphasizes time in oak for other reasons; these wines seek supple expressions and softer structures. And the new internationalist schools are in full effect in Rioja; there are plenty of producers with powerful wines, inky-dark and joltingly tannic with new French oak. So the bastion of Spain’s wine tradition has many rooms in this mansion, as it were, and each ought to be viewed as genuine.

White Wine

Rioja’s major grape variety is Viura, which makes up the largest proportion of the blend in any white wine from Spain’s most historic wine region.

Imperial Reserva & Gran Reserva
These wines are made with hand selected, perfectly healthy grapes from their vineyards at Villalba, northwest of Haro. These are low yielding vineyards, with production levels of around 4.000 kg/Ha. After destalking, the grapes are fermented in stainless steel tanks, at temperatures no higher than 91.4°Fahrenheit. Following a long maceration to achieve optimum color and structure, the wine passes to malolactic fermentation, to refine the wine, and to leave it with the correct acidity. The wine then spends two years in American and French oak casks, before being fined with egg whites and bottled. It will then spend a further time in bottle in our cellars, before releasing to the market.

Contino

Contino is Cuné’s 150 single vineyard estate on the banks of the river Ebro in Rioja Alavesa. Established in 1974, Contino was the first single estate wine in Rioja. Aged in French barrique, equal proportions in new to 4 year old barrels with racking done twice per year. All grapes are estate grown and hand-harvested and all wines are aged and bottled at the estate. The wines show deep extracted color, high level of fruit intensity and concentrated flavors.

Faustino
Wines of Julio Faustino Martinez

In 1861 Eleuterio Martinez Arzok abandoned his home town and moved to Oyón where he purchased a palace and vineyards. But not until 1930 did the process of bottling wines occur which was initiated by Faustino Martinez Pérez de Albéniz. In 1955, Julio Faustino Martinez, son of Don Faustino, took over the family business and in 1960 the Faustino brand was launched in domestic and foreign markets. As part of a strategy to expand, Don Julio turned to the family, recruiting his children who had been actively involved in the family business from an early age. Today they all occupy managerial positions in the bodega, maintaining the family character of the Faustino Group.

A family protocol has been implemented that will make it possible that the Faustino Group of bodegas remain 100% a family concern while insuring a successful future where the ideal will always be to seek quality without concessions to passing fads, establishing trade links and cementing permanent friendships.

Today the Gonzmart family is proud of their friendship with the Martinez family, being their largest customer in the United States and also as a fellow multi-generational family business.

Bodegas Marqués de Murrieta

Rioja’s oldest winery started in 1825 when the first grapes were planted at the estate of Ygay. Murrieta makes three levels of red wines; the majority of these unique cask-aged wines from Murrieta are bottled under the Castillo Ygay label. These wines are produced from the state’s own vineyard and are only made in exceptional years. The reds are primarily made from the traditional varieties of the region: Tempranillo and a small percentage of Garnacha, Mazuelo and Graciano.

This wine was bottled in July 1987 after 22 years in barrique. It is attractive cherry red in color with an explosive bouquet combining fruit with aromas of tobacco, oak, cigar box, toast and spices.
On the palate it is full flavored and very lively, well structured, weighty and lightly astringent with great complexity of flavors and elegance on the finish.

832  Castillo de Ygay Gran Reserva 2007
170
Deep crimson-colored, it offers up an enticing perfume of cedar, pencil lead, earth notes, and black fruits. This leads to a supple-textured, layered wine with ample black cherry, spice, and blackberry flavors. The lengthy wine has excellent grip and enough structure to evolve.
90 points, Wine Advocate.

104  Marques de Murrieta Egay Gran Reserva Especial 2009
165
Exclusively produced with the best years of our best single vineyard. Matured for 2 ½ years in American oak and 3 years in the bottle. 81% Tempranillo and 19% Mazuelo. It’s nose exhibits an aromatic intensity which seduces us with it’s red fruits and floral notes of truffles, incense and spicy touches. It caresses the palate with a satin texture. A Gran Reserva that shows strength and elegant bouquet with fruity intensity and impeccable balance.
96 Points, Robert Parker.

Bodega Montecillo

Founded in 1874, Bodegas Montecillo is one of the longest established wineries in the Rioja and with the greatest tradition in making the wines protected by this Denominación de Origen. Montecillo was one of the pioneering wineries which adapted Bordeaux winemaking techniques to Spanish grapes.

More than 130 years after it was founded, Montecillo strictly adheres to its prime objective: to produce natural and full red wines with personality by carefully selecting fruit, and by allowing its wines to naturally age and mature in their bottles. This results in a highly consistent level of quality year after year. The winery is now owned by Osborne, Spain’s largest producer of wines and spirits.

Red Wine

Montecillo Crianza 2014

On the nose it is very potent, fruity, sweet, on a clean background of American wood with coconut and tones of blackberry in the finish.

Montecillo Reserva 2011

Spicy tones, vanilla and black fruits combines with hints of licorice and mint. Good structure and elegant tannins with a long finish.

Cirsion

In 1995, Bodegas Roda observed that some vines were producing grapes with a flavor that was very different from that of other surrounding vines - the grapes had characteristics which were closer to actual wine tasting rather than grape-tasting. They established a theory that certain plants were predisposed to reproduce these characteristics and that the vines were... playing a role of substitution for the ageing process. In 1997 they made their first “Cirsion,” which was not released on to the market. They found that with a short ageing in barrel, it reached an incredible degree of silkiness and unparalleled fruit complexity.

Each year a select group of harvesters capable of identifying these grapes go through the vineyards seeking out this curious natural rarity. On one vine in a thousand these grapes are found and picked to make Cirsion.

The result is eagerly awaited each year by wine enthusiasts all over the world.

Bodegas Ramon Bilbao
Founded in 1924 by Ramon Bilboa Murga, an experienced wine trader who had been selling wine since 1896 from premises at Calle Las Cuevas in Haro. Ramon was a forward thinking grape grower, a pioneer in the art of ageing. The winery is located in Haro, La Rioja Alta, the “sweet spot” of the Rioja DOC and includes 185 acres of Estate vineyards with vines averaging 35+ years of age. The vineyards are planted mostly with Tempranillo, but also a small portion of Garnacha, Mazuelo and Graciano. They are also non-irrigated and predominatnly nontrellised. Ramon Bilboa stays with the tradition of hand harvesting all of their vineyards and ages their wines well past the requirements mandated by Spanish law.

Red Wine

Rioja is best known for the excellence of its red wines made primarily from Tempranillo grapes.

Artadi “Viña el Pison” 1999

230

Alluring flavors of raspberry jam and milk chocolate give this red a velvety appeal. Sweet and beautifully textured with ripe fruit and lavish oak.

Artadi “Viña el Pison” 2006

275
The wine was aged for 16-18 months in new French oak. It has an ethereal nose found only in the greatest wines. Toasty oak, wood smoke, truffle, wild blueberry, and blackberry liqueur are striking and complex. This is followed by a layered wine with an elegant personality that still has plenty of grip, breadth, and length. 97 points, Wine Advocate.

634  Hermanos Pecina Crianza 2007

36

An explosive, perfumed nose offers a range of coconut–accented red berry aromas with notes of flowers, vanilla and tobacco. Fine-grained tannins add structure to the silky long finish.

635  Hermanos Pecina Reserva 2005

48

The wine features fresh strawberry, succulent herbs, roses and vanilla on the seductive nose. Bright, spicy and insistent strawberry and red currant flavor define the long juicy finish.

738  Marqués de Riscal Reserva 2012

Clear, dark ruby, with crimson glints against the light. Cherries, almost a maraschino character in the aroma, backed by subtle spice with an earthy whiff of older oak barrels. Bright and ripe on the palate, red-cherry fruit laced up with an acidic zing; tannins aren't overly evident, but show up as a soft astringency in the tart, long finish. A Rioja meant for aging, it will surely gain complexity with years in the cellar; but its bright fruit and easy tannins make it quite accessible now, particularly with rare red meat on the table.

736  Marqués de Riscal Gran Reserva 2007

82

Very complex nose with a combination of balsamic aromas, spices and raisiny fruit. Initial impact of balsamic aroma in the mouth which fades leaving smoothness along the edge and below the tongue, with a slight recollection of tannin on the upper gums and front palate.

739  Marqués de Riscal 1925

Intense and complex aromas of mulberry and other black fruits, with a sweet hints of cocoa and chocolate derived from the wood. Some herbal, minty notes and violet, floral aromas are present as well. On the palate, it is well-balanced with lots of fruit, soft tannins and a long, persistent finish.

986 Colección Vivanco Garnacha 2007

It has a deep ruby color, with aromas of ripe red fruit (strawberries), spices and well-integrated oak. On the palate, it shows high acidity, is unctuous and has a long finish.

987 Colección Vivanco Marzuelo 2007

89

Intense aromas of ripe black berries and raspberries combine with hints of fresh herbs and other earthy mineral nuances. Very fresh and fruity on the palate with eucalyptus notes that complement the smooth tannins and long complex finish.

863 Beronia Crianza 2012

38
Tobacco and vanilla notes frame a core of cherry fruit in this tender, juicy red, which has a silky texture, with just enough tannins for grip.

159  Campo Viejo Reserva 2014

36
Aged 18 months in oak. Good structure with a velvety texture combining flavors of ripe fruit and vanilla.

494  Conde de Valdemar Crianza 1968

The Meseta of Spain

The “tabletop” that represents the center of the elevated plateau that is Spain is not a uniformly flat, hot, and arid place. Instead, there are significantly mountainous spots that offer the possibility of making high quality wines, based upon strong differences between daytime and nighttime temperatures. The northern piece of the Meseta lies in Castilla y León. The southern portion of the Meseta, Castilla-La Mancha, is producing remarkable wines based less upon dramatic diurnal temperature swings than upon remarkably old and healthy vineyards.

Dominio de Valdepusa

Montés de Toledo

Dominio de Valdepusa is one of only nine Denominaciones de Origen de Pago existing in Spain as of 2009. This is the highest category on the quality scale of Spanish wines and means that in addition to having a proven track record consistent quality, the wines have to be both produced from estate-grown grapes and also have to be processed and aged in a winery located on the estate. Located thirty miles to the South of Toledo. The first vineyards in Spain using the mixed Plantation system allowing the use of the most advanced technology, the “Canopy Management”. Today Cabernet Sauvignon, Chardonnay, Petit Verdot and Syrah are all using a mixed system.

497  Svmma Variera  2002

Svmma is a Latin word commonly used as addition or compounded knowledge on any subject. This wine summarizes the efforts of two generations of the Falcó Family, through the expression of grapes grown on our Dominio de Valdepusa Family Estate. It’s intense and complex berry flavors, velvety texture plus the gentle spiciness of the French Oak marry beautifully with Mediterranean cuisine.

Dominio de Valdepusa

Marqués de Griñón

Marqués de Griñón wines are sourced from the prized Domino de Valdepusa vineyard in Castilla – La Mancha, it’s 1068 foot elevation is one of the highest in Spain, and the top layer of soil is similar to Burgandy’s, it’s almost pure limestone. Domino de Valdepusa has been in the noble family of Carlos Falcó Fernandez de Córdova, the Marquis of Griñón since 1292. Referred to as the Father of Spanish wine, Falcó pioneered the modernization of vine growing and wine making in Spain. In 2003, Domino de Valdepusa became the first estate to receive the DO de Pago, the highest level in the Spanish classification system. Domino de Valdepusa is located in Castilla – La Mancha, 31 miles from Toledo, near the Pusa River. A reputable winemaker in his own right, Falcó has invited top experts from around the world to help continually improve Marqués de Griñón processes. Legendary Bordeaux oenologist Micheal Rolland and Emile Peynand, soil expert Claude Bourgui and Australian viticulturist Dr. Richard Smart have consulted at Marqués de Griñón since 1990, helping to implement the technologies and method that make the winery one of the most advanced in the world.

Tierra de Castilla

This region is located in central Spain, the Spain of Don Quixote, noted for its hot, arid plains. The V. de la T. de Castilla was formed in 1999 to take in those areas outside of the several D.O.s in the area. The region as a whole has 600,000 hectares (1.48 million acres) of vineyards, which represents nearly 6% of the world’s vineyards.

The warmth of the coast from the French border to Almería can be mitigated by high altitudes, whether in Cataluña or in Valencia. Throughout most of this area, world-class wines are appearing in places such as Priorat and Montsant, as well as established areas such as Penedés. Cava, the most famous sparkling wine in the world after Champagne, makes its home in Penedés.

DO Alicante
Alicante

Alicante is a DO in the southwestern autonomia of Valencia. The region has long produced wine, receiving it’s DO status back in 1957. However, it had a reputation for producing bulk wine and was better know for it’s oranges and Paella. In the last few decades, it has undergone a metamorphosis and is now producing premium wines, especially spicy reds from the Monastrell grape.

Bodegas Enrique Mendoza

Although Enrique Mendoza founded the winery, his son Pepe now runs the business, aided by his brother Julian. Pepe is responsible for the vineyard management and the winemaking while Julian looks after the commercial side of the company. So well respected is Enrique Mendoza that it was inducted into the prestigious Grandes Pagos de Espana. To become a member, a vineyard must surpass strict quality standards and also exhibit a degree of uniqueness in terms of soil, climate or grape variety that sets it apart from the surrounding area. The association’s membership includes only 25 estates throughout Spain.

Torres Family Wines

The Torres family surname has been linked with wine for more than three centuries, but they did not begin trading their wines commercially until 1800. In 1870 the first Torres winery began construction and soon after their wines gained great prestige wherever the intrepid Catalan sea captains transported them. Torres’s world-wide expansion is due to the tenacity and boldness of Miguel Torres Carbó. In 1939 the Torres winery was bombed, a result of the Spanish Civil War, but with the determined efforts of Miguel Torres Carbó, and the notable help of his wife, Doña Margarita, the winery was rebuilt.

Since the days of Miguel Torres Carbó, the gains made by the Torres family throughout the world have grown, including Chile and California. The Torres family, generation after generation, has transmitted the secrets of winemaking and love of the land. This tradition, allied with a vision of the future, have turned Torres into a great exporting company currently trading in more than 120 countries.

In 2006, Torres was names European Winery of the Year by Wine Enthusiast Magazine.

Reserva Real

1995 celebrated the 125th Anniversary of the Torres winery. His Majesty King Juan Carlos I visited the winery and saw the vineyards and installations and showed great interest in every aspect of winemaking. While tasting the wines, His Majesty showed particular appreciation for a red wine from the Santa Margarita de Agulladol vineyard. At this high altitude location, presided over by a Romanesque chapel dating from the 12th century. The fine slate soils produce very small harvests of an exceptional wine that subsequently ages and becomes more refined in new oak barrels from the forests of Nevers (France). In 1997 this Reserva Real (Royal Reserve) was vintified separately in memory of the visit by His Majesty, King Juan Carlos I.

Intense deep mahogany red color, with brown tinges in keeping with a properly aged wine. On the nose the wine is intense, complex and very fruity (blackberry and raspberry jams). There are clear signs of oak in a series of toasted aromas (toasted almonds and toasted bread) and a slight hint of smoke over a spicy background of cloves and bay leaf. On the palate it is powerful and to emerge, with body and huge concentration enhanced by its sweet but well structured tannins.

The wines from Conca de Barbera are mainly whites and roses. The Conca region is based around two river valleys, the Francoli and the Anguera. The area is quite dry, with cool winters and hot summers; ideal ripening conditions for grapes. The concave bowl of this limestone-rich valley can, and has, produced some lovely wines for British grocers and for the Torres family. Jumilla has been known for its production of heavy full bodied red wines with 17% alcohol, however in recent years there has been a shift towards producing younger and lighter styles of wines. The influences of the dry Levante winds and breezes off the Mediterranean help produce a semi-arid climate in this region. The grape varieties permitted by the regulatory body of Jumilla for the production of red, white and rose wines are as follows:

- Monastrell, Garnacha and Tintorera Cencibel for the red and rose wines.
- Merseguera, Airen, Pedro Ximenez for the white wines.

The top cuvée, made from 80% Syrah, 15% Garnacha and 5% Cabernet Sauvignon, though from 2005 this will be 100% Syrah, from the originally planted, 25-year-old vines and harvested at a very low 15hl/ha yield. It is aged in all French oak for 14 months, half new, half one year old. A touch closed, with possibly the merest touch of reduction, this would benefit from decanting or aerating. Lovely blackberry nose emerges, with a beautiful juiciness and touches of earth and charcoal, and some very attractive violet notes. The palate has such fine, ripe, pure black fruit. It has a juiciness and a lean, muscular, very structured palate bit with masses of black fruit at its core, and such good, tight, supple tannins. Good acidity too, with a really clean, racy finish. Ánima Negra was founded in 1994 when two self-taught friends—Peres Ignasi Obrador and Miguel Angel Cerdà—decided that the wines of their native Mallorca weren’t reaching their full potential. Situated in the southeast of Mallorca, Ánima Negra winery produces its wines on the old country estate of Son Burguera, close to the town of Felanitx. The buildings date back to the 13th century. Ánima Negra sources its grapes from more than 135 carefully selected parcels of land that the partners either own or control. Virtually all these parcels are within a 6 mile radius of the winery, and most of the vines are 50 to 85 years old. Ánima Negra’s vines are dry-farmed and are not fertilized, helping to insure they produce small, concentrated fruit. The resulting unique, elegant wines having garnered world wide praise and earned a loyal following among fine wine enthusiasts throughout the world.

Intense aromas of candied fruits, nuances of woodland undergrowth, tobacco and smoke imparted by French oak barrels. Firm tannins, well balanced.
Parés Baltà Wines

Parés Baltà is a family owned winery in the Penedès region with tradition dating back to 1790. Parés Baltà produces wines and cavas of high quality and the grapes are all estate grown, cultivating their vineyards in an ecological way and since the 2004 harvest the vineyards have been certified as ecological/organic. The family has a long tradition of winemakers, but with new and fresh ideas. There are currently three generations working at Parés Baltà: The grandfather, Joan Cusiné Hill, born in 1917, continues to be active together with his son Joan Cusiné Cusiné. But the reins of the business have now passed to his two grandsons – Joan and Josep Cusiné Carol who together are guiding the company into a new era of high quality wine production. The winemaking is in the hands of Maria Elena Jimenez and Marta Casas, enologists and wives to the two grandsons. Two skilled young women whose efforts are reflecting in the quality of the wines that are produced at Parés Baltà.

Intense floral aroma of violets over a background of cocoa and small red berries (red currants and pomegranate). Smooth on the palate with sweet tannins that enhance the floral varietal notes as well as those of truffles and spices.
The Priorato

This is a small area sheltered by the natural barrier of the Monsarat. Outstanding reds are robust, deeply colored with a high concentration of aromas and flavors with high alcohol content. The vineyards lie on slopes with slatey soil - Richard Gonzmarts' favorite region for overall great reds.

The Priorat 5

If you are looking for a big new world, lush style Spanish red then look no further than the 5 surviving “first growth” Priorat wine producers.

The Scala Dei wines from the 1970’s helped to develop a second revolution in Priorat in the 2000’s.

The region incorporated production techniques such as fermentation with stems or ageing in large foundries instead of the smaller 225~ litre Bordeaux barrels.

10 major producers then followed Scala Dei’s inspiration and started producing world-class wines in the region. Five still survive to this day…

Clos Mogador (Barbier), Clos Martinet (Pérez), Clos Dofi (Palacios), Clos Erasmus (Glorian) and Clos de l’Obac (Pastrana).

If Andalucía is the heart of Spain, its wines are the blood that keeps it pumping. Within a region that is known for its rich cultural heritage, Andalusian wines have made their mark among wine connoisseurs from all over the world as the most authentic, most universal Spanish wines available, wines that don’t follow any outside model. From the sweet dessert wines of Málaga, to the dry, tangy Manzanilla wines from Jerez, the four D.O.’s of Andalucía deserve to be set apart from the rest.

D.O. Candado de Huelva
D.O. Jerez-Xérès-Sherry Manzanilla
D.O. Málaga
D.O. Montilla-Moriles
Málaga

The sweet dessert wines of D.O. Málaga are the most famous in this zone. Winery styles vary from dry amontillado to the more typical dessert wines, traditionally sweetened with must evaporated in copper pans. Muscatel and Pedro Ximénez grapes are grown in the mountains to the north of the city and then matured using the solera system.

Brilliant golden color. Powerful and mature, with notes of nutmeg, peach jam and dried apricots together with undertones of hydrocarbons. Full-bodied, concentrated, very sweet, minerally, intense on retronasal, with nuances of minerals and candied fruit. This viscous white offers orange peel, honey, coconut and spice flavors, sweet, with just enough acidity to keep it lively. Not heavy, but intense. Long finish with memories of citrus fruits. Only 50 cases imported! 94 Points, Wine Advocate.
California Wines

California traces its winegrowing roots back to the mid 1700’s when Spanish explorers & Franciscan fathers moved north from Mexico and established religious retreats throughout California. Although the early winemaking began with the native Mexican mission grape, this rustic wine made fulfilled a need by the missions for sacramental ceremonies and medicinal purposes.

Almost every kind of climate and geologic resource exists in California – from the 840 mile long Pacific Coastline to the hot, dry Central Valley to the majestic mountains of the Sierra Nevadas. And California has the distinction of, unlike the European wineries who have strict laws on what grapes can be grown and where, of being able to freely plant any and all grape varieties.

California’s revolution began in 1976 when at a comparative tasting in Paris, two California wines – a California chardonnay and a cabernet beat all other wines in the blind tasting. The incredulous wins by Chateau Montelena 1973 Chardonnay and Stag’s Leap Wine Cellars 1973 Cabernet sparked a tidal wave that swept New World wines across the ocean to Europe and helped put California at the epicenter of not just United States winemaking, but world wide.

74 Paul Hobbs Crossbarn Chardonnay 2017
49
Opens with exuberant green guava, warm peaches and pineapple notions with touches of almonds, croissant and acacia honey. Medium to full-bodied, the concentrated palate is packed with tropical fruit and stone fruit flavors with a pleasant oiliness to the texture and a long savory finish. 91 Points, Robert Parker

40 Paul Hobbs Chardonnay, Russian River Valley 2017
Composed of pedigreed sites that are defined by the region’s cooling fog and warm afternoon sunshine, the wine exhibits a youthful pale straw color in the glass and aromas of tangerine, white florals, and shaved ginger. Lively flavors of white peach and Gravenstein apple emerge on the palate that give way to complex flavors of baking spice and pie crust that add a round texture to accompany its bright acidity, framing the long finish.

118  Paul Hobbs Crossbarn Pinot Noir 2016
56
Offers lovely baked raspberries and black cherries and mulberry notes with touches of chocolate, earth menthol and dried herbs. Medium to full-bodied. The palate is laden with red and blackberry flavors. 91 Points, Robert Parker

205  Paul Hobbs Pinot Noir Russian River Valley 2017
90
Highlighting a collection of estate and grower parcels that are defined by their proximity to the coast and Russian River, the wine displays a crimson hue and aromas of violet, Earl Grey Tea, and baked sour cherry. The velvet texture on the palate combines with flavors of Damson plum, red clay and orange peel that ends with fresh acidity that lifts the palate, lengthening the wine's finish.

250  Paul Hobbs Cabernet Sauvignon, Napa Valley 2015
The color of a Burmese ruby, the 2015 Napa Valley Cabernet Sauvignon even in its appearance has an exuberant nature. On the nose find wild elderberry, black currant, and tobacco. Pure delineated flavors of ripe blueberry, graphite, olive, sage, thyme and sea salt provide for an ever-evolving experience on the palate. Fine-grained tannins, balanced acidity and a richly intense saturated medium ruby. Extremely primary, youthfully medicinal scents of crushed blueberry, blackberry, cassis and violet. Seriously chewy and tactile but nowhere near ready to drink, offering extremely backward—even youthfully clenched—flavors of blackberry, graphite and slate. This tastes like a barrel sample, but even today there’s nothing hard about this potentially exciting wine, which offers an exhilarating sweet/savory balance
and excellent inner-mouth tension.

937 Vina Cobos Bramare Malbec Lujan de Cuyo 2015
69
A Paul Hobbs project in Argentina. The palate is vibrant and lifted. This plush red wine is full of rich, creamy blackberry, dark currant and plum flavors, with shadings of black olive. Finished with chocolate and Asian spices. 93 Points, James Suckling

866 Cobos Malbec "Chañares Estate" Los Arboles, Tunuyán, Uco Valley
325
The iconic Cobos wines represent the standard of elegance and complexity for Viña Cobos. The Cobos Chañares comes from the best block within this estate vineyard, which sits in the foothills of the Andes mountains. Exquisitely full-bodied wine with fresh, vibrant aromas of spice, blue fruits and typical Andean herbs like jarilla and wild thyme. The wine is energetic and voluptuous with muscular tannins and a long, textural finish.

890 Vina Cobos Bramare Marchiori Estate Malbec 2015
225
A Paul Hobbs project in Argentina. Balsamic aromas reminiscent of cigar ash. Intense with a touch of graphite and licorice. It has full-bodied palate with grainy, slightly dusty tannins. 97 Points, James Suckling

910 Cobos Malbec "Marchiori Estate" Perdreil, Luján De Cuyo 2016
250
Since its inaugural vintage in 1999, this Cobos Malbec from our Marchiori Estate has set the standard for quality in the region. Today, the wine is sourced from the same block of exceptional vines, now over 80 years old. The 2016 is elegant and refined; the wine expresses aromas of roses and violets, ripe red fruit, fresh figs, white pepper and clove. An exquisitely delicate and balanced wine with silky tannins, a full body and long finish.

309  Beckstoffer Dr. Crane Vineyards 2010 495
Rich, sumptuous and totally striking. It brings together all of the classic Dr. Crane qualities - expressive aromatics, silky tannins and voluptuous fruit, all with the crystalline purity of 2010. Juicy dark cherries, roses, sweet spices and crushed rocks are layered in the expressive finish. Anticipated maturity.

333  Beckstoffer Dr. Crane Vineyards 2011 475
Flinty, wet stone-like characteristics, more rugged tannins and an overall more masculine personality than the Las Piedras. Its concentration is impressive for a 2011, the tannins are ripe, and the wine is beefy and mouthfilling. Although it may lack some of the nuances typical for this site, it is definitely a star of the vintage. It should drink well for 10-15 years.

376  Beckstoffer Dr. Crane Vineyards 2012 450
Boasts a sumptuous nose of blueberries, black raspberry jam and wet rocks that provide a hedonistic blast of fruit as well as exceptional minerality. With glorious richness in the mouth, fabulous purity, a skyscraper-like texture and an elegant style without heaviness, this sensational and compelling Cabernet Sauvignon should be one of the superstars of what looks to be a vintage loaded with big hitters. It should age effortlessly for 20+ years.

514  Beckstoffer Dr. Crane Vineyards 2013

575

A mission Haut-Brion-on-steroids character, as it seems to be all gravel pit. Loads of wet pebbles, graphite, blueberry and blackberry fruit, a full bodied opulence, and just a killer skyscraper-like mouthfeel and stunning finish make for one of the most provacative and fabulous wines in this portfolio. Drink it over the next 25+ years. This is world-class and can stand up against anything made in 2013.

308  Beckstoffer Dr. Crane Vineyards 2014

561  Beckstoffer Las Piedras Vineyards 2011

475

An impressive wine exhibiting a dense ruby/purple color, creamy richness, lots of creme de cassis, licorice and forest floor, a complete palate from the attack to the finish with no holes, vegetal characteristics or astringency. While less powerful than this cuvee can be in a great vintage, it still delivers the goods. Drink it over the next decade.

637  Beckstoffer Las Piedras Vineyards 2012

475

A rich, unctuous wine, the 2012 Cabernet Sauvignon Beckstoffer Las Piedras Vineyard possesses magnificent richness and depth. Today the 2012 is quite open and opulent, in the classic style for the year. Sweet red cherry, plum, spice, mocha and new leather are all pushed forward in a sexy, voluptuous wine to drink over the next 10-15 years. This is a classic 2012 with plenty of near and medium term appeal.

647  Beckstoffer Las Piedras Vineyards 2013

495
The 2013 Cabernet Sauvignon Beckstoffer Las Piedras Vineyard is rich, powerful and explosive. The underlying minerality and intensity of this site comes through in spades. Lavender, crushed rocks, graphite, smoke and incense add shades of dimension.

Readers will have to give the 2013 a few years to soften, but there is plenty to like.

722 Beckstoffer Las Piedras Vineyards 2014
475
The 2014 Cabernet Sauvignon Beckstoffer Las Piedras Vineyard is shaping up to be another beauty from Paul Hobbs. Rich and beautifully layered in the glass – with compelling interplay of fruit and structure – the 2014 is wonderfully complete, even at this early stage. I especially admire the intensely mineral/savory drive that is such a central part of what Las Piedras is all about.

380 Beckstoffer Las Piedras Vineyards 2015
390
Exhibiting intense garnet, the aromas juxtapose between powerful black currant and cocoa with Fresh lavender and sage. The palate is bolstered by soft, lush tannins that harmonize the ripe Blackberry and cassis flavors with intense mineral expressions of limestone and iron. 98 Points, Robert Parker

106 Beckstoffer To Kalon Vineyards 2007
Dark ruby-red. Urgent aromas of cassis, black cherry, licorice, menthol and violet.

Densely packed, chewy and concentrated but less liquer-like and thick than a sample I tried two years ago for my 2007 Cabernet horizontal, conveying a slightly inky quality to its vibrant dark berry and floral flavors. Quite juicy, and already displaying a captivating subtle sweetness, but this wine still needs time to unfold and knit. Plenty of baby fat here but the tannins... are not yet resolved. This youthful wine may yet go in the direction of the superb 2001. This wine was entirely in new Taransaud barriques.

900
Saturated red-ruby. Licorice, black cherry, red-and black currant, sexy soil tones and violet on the nose; conveys a strong impression of site character. Densely packed, full and youthful, conveying strong inner-mouth lift but still monolithic and in need of patience. The wine's inky dark fruit, spice and graphite flavors are firm but not at all hard or spiky. Made from vines picked on the late side, this big boy may not be as graceful as the 2010 but its firm tannic structure should ensure a long, slow evolution. And this classically dry Cabernet boasts excellent definition and inner-mouth tension. Give this wine some time in a decanter if you plan to open a bottle anytime soon.

176 Beckstoffer To Kalon Vineyard 2010
Saturated full ruby. Bright aromas of cassis, black cherry, menthol and mocha are complicated by subtle soil and spice tones. Wonderfully plush, seamless wine with terrific inner-mouth energy, clarity and peppery grip to its flavors of dark fruits, minerals, flowers and spices. The gripping tannins still need time to be absorbed. This highly complex, very long wine is quite claret-like in its refined grain, density without weight, savory character and finishing lift. He describes this wine as Barishnikov-like, while the '09, a wine that he also calls one of his favorite vintages, is a bit chunkier, "like a linebacker".

178 Beckstoffer To Kalon Vineyards 2012
825
Saturated medium ruby. Extremely primary, youthfully medicinal scents of crushed blueberry, blackberry, cassis and violet. Seriously chewy and tactile but nowhere near ready to drink,

370 Beckstoffer To Kalon Vineyards 2014

Saturated bright medium ruby. The alluring aromas of black cherry, blackberry and licorice pastille reveal a chocolatey ripeness but are also nicely lifted by a violet topnote. Rich, plush and sweet, with the violet quality carrying through on the palate. The wine's dark berry flavors are complemented by incipient mineral and soil tones. Wonderfully floral and harmonious Cabernet, at one mouthfilling and juicy. Very dense and complete, finishing with an impression of solidity and outstanding persistence.

Chateau Montelena

Chateau Montelena was founded in 1882 by Alfred L. Tubbs. Within on decade he was able to turn his dream into a reality. First he planted his vineyards, then he built his Chateau and in 1886 he imported a French-born winemaker. By 1896 his winery was the seventh largest in the Napa Valley. Devastatingly, winemaking at the Chateau came to an end with prohibition and by 1958 the Tubb family sold the winery.

The next chapter begins with the renaissance of Chateau Montelena. Under the leadership of James Barrett, the vineyards were cleared and replanted and in 1972 wines were made once again. In 1976 Chateau Montelena put California at the forefront of the wine world when their 1973 Chardonnay rated above all other white wines at a grand tasting in Paris France. The results proved that Chateau Montelena could produce some of the world’s finest wines, and that California’s wine industry had come of age.

Marimar Torres

Marimar Torres is fourth generation to the world-famous Spanish wine family, Torres. She came to California in late 1970 and with her father’s blessing, began planting her vineyard in the early 80’s. Her vineyard was the first in the region to be planted in the European style, with a vineyard planting density of 5,000 vines per hectare, producing wines of exceptional character and quality. Nestled in the rolling hills of western Sonoma County, the Russian River Valley appellation is a perfect microclimate for growing Chardonnay and Pinot Noir. The vineyard is influenced by the sea’s cooling breezes and drifting fog. That is why Marimar selected this privileged location to “export” the Torres family legacy of fine wines to California.

Opus One was founded in 1978 as a joint venture between Robert Mondavi and Baroness Phillippine de Rothschild of Château Mouton Rothschild. The creation of this winery venture was big news in the wine industry - de Rothschild’s involvement added an air of respectability to the Napa Valley wine region which was growing rapidly at the time. Ultimately, this partnership united wine’s first families from California and France to create one of the world’s great wines in quality, elegance and stature.

Opus One is a blend of five Bordeaux red varieties planted within the vineyards – Merlot, Cabernet Franc, Malbec and Petit Verdot, in addition to Cabernet Sauvignon. But since it’s first vintage in 1979, and every vintage that followed, the wine has contained at least 80% Cabernet Sauvignon, making it truly a Cabernet Sauvignon whether it is labeled as one or not.

Palazzo

It began 30 years ago... a love affair with the wines produced from the Bordeaux region of France. Particularly wines from the small family owned Chateaus that dot the rolling hillsides of the beautiful “Right Bank” countryside. It was from here that Scott Palazzo’s inspiration came from. The goal at Palazzo is to make outstanding wines with depth, balance and structure that exhibit “power and elegance” on the palate and pair well with a broad range of foods.

White Wine

The history of the Sebastiani Vineyards dates back to 1825 and are among the oldest vineyard sites in northern California. They were acquired in 1904 by Samuele Sebastiani, the founder of the family winery, who had immigrated from the wine producing region of Tuscany, Italy in 1895. Today, the third generation of the family has taken on the leadership role, Mary Ann Sebastiani Cuneo. Her son Marc Cuneo, fourth generation, is also actively involved in the company. Together, Mary Ann and Marc guide the company in its renaissance and put great emphasis on becoming the leader among Sonoma Valley’s quality wineries.

The Sebastiani Family celebrated their Centennial in 2004. The following year Mary Ann “passed the cork” to Richard Gonzmart, fourth generation to the Columbia Restaurant, in celebration of the Columbia’s Centennial in 2005.

Intense berry patch flavors, with caramel and forest floor hints. Great core of red fruit, stellar focus, just enough grip and complex finish.
Heitz Cellars

The way in which Martha’s Vineyard Cabernet has been made over the last 45 years came straight from Joe Heitz, one of the great personalities of Napa’s Golden Decade in the 1960’s, and among one of it’s most gifted winemakers. Prior to starting his own winery in 1961, he was the legendary Andre Tchelistcheff’s right hand man at Beaulieu Vineyard for eight years, later he became the very first to issue a single-vineyard bottling of Napa Valley wine with the release of Martha’s Vineyard Cabernet Sauvignon in 1970. The winemaking tradition is now passed on to his son David.

Dry Creek Dry Chenin Blanc 2014
Aromatics of white peach, cantaloupe, melon and lavender. On the palate this wine is refreshing with great acidity and mouth-feel dancing across the palate with juicy tropical fruit notes and minerality undertones.

Bell Sauvignon Blanc 2013, Napa Valley
Brilliantly clear, beautifully pale color with slight hints of green. Cold fermentation in stainless steel tanks has preserved the fresh citrus and mineral flavors, vivid aromatics and brisk acidity. The bright acidity on the palate makes the wine lively and provides a refreshing, long lasting, satisfying finish.

Benziger Sauvignon Blanc 2015, Sonoma
It is fruit driven in style, with subtle oak and herb overtones. In aroma, it smells of apple, lemongrass, and vanilla; on the palate, it is medium bodied, softly textured with bright acid, and medium long on the finish.

55  Kunde Sauvignon Blanc, Magnolia Lane 2012
34
Vibrant and fresh. Aromas of mango and guava fill your glass while subtle flavors of white peach and grapefruit on your palate.

633  St. Supéry Sauvignon Blanc 2013, Napa Valley
36
Focused and intense, starting with ruby grapefruit, nectarine and a shaded aromatic minerality.
The palate is bright with lime juice, honeydew melon and pineapple. A refreshing acidity keeps all of the extraordinary flavors light on their feet, very juicy and a finish that goes on forever.
90 Points, Wine and Spirits.

129  Nicholson Sauvignon Blanc 2012, Santa Barbara
48
Broad but delicate, zippy but condensed. Ripe cantaloupe whets the palate with defined New World character, sweetened with cool green honeydew edge. Finish is creamy with the pure element of clean, bright fruit.

27  Mantanzas Creek Sauvignon Blanc 2014, Sonoma
40
Fermented in stainless steel tanks, revealing refreshing aromas of passion fruit, lime, and pink grapefruit that are unique to this vibrant wine.

94  Cade Sauvignon Blanc 2015
48
Aromas of pear, white peach, grapefruit and green melon appear on the nose, while a taste of apple, lemon, lime and citrus blossom come out on the palate.

67  Orin Swift Blank Stare 2017
54
95% Sauvignon Blanc and 5% Semillon. The wine bursts with classic aromas of white peach, pear and freshly cut grass as well as stone, butter scotch and clove. Shards of minerality, white fig and lemon zest dominate the palate.

145 Trinchero Mason, Sauvignon Blanc 2016, Napa Valley

38

Lovely orange blossom, boxwood floral aromas. Medium-bodied, well-balanced with a round juicy texture. Pear, fresh tart apple on the palate, complimented by a lingering, bright finish.

661 Chateau Montelena Estate Cabernet Sauvignon 1998
250
The wine has the typical dark Montelena color and density in the glass. The ripe fruit comes across with big and spicy varietal characteristics, lots of cassis and earth. It is elegant from the moderated cool year, but also ripe from the warm end of the season. The tannins are supple and elegant. With the amount of big fruit on the palate it is quite soft on the entry and then firms up to the rich and layered finish.

662 Chateau Montelena Estate Cabernet Sauvignon 1999

115  Appealing aromas of boysenberries and plums. There is also a subtle not of spice and oak. This wine is deftly balanced whose end result is a harmonious complex Cabernet that is polished and pleasing.
Cing Cépages ("five Varieties") is a Bordeaux-style blend consisting of 76% Cabernet Sauvignon, 10% Merlot, 9% Cabernet Franc, 3% Malbec, and 2% Petit Verdot. This wine is smooth and harmonious with rich supple plum and blackberry fruity shaded by cedar and black cherry.

Beautifully crafted, dark, rich and layered, with blackberry, cherry, plum and wild berry fruit that zooms across the palate, holding a tight focus and finishing with a long, complex aftertaste.

Exhibits a deep garnet color with intense aromas of ripe cherry, cassis, and pipe tobacco.

Concentrated flavors of ripe plums, and dark bing cherries marry perfectly with the oak nuances.

This is a well structured wine that is balanced with firm, velvety tannins which culminate in a long, elegant finish with hints of tobacco, dried herbs and fruit.

The nose is filled with brown sugar and blackberry aromas topped with coconut and vanilla from the oak regime. The blackberry continues on the palate and carries through to the finish.

Dark ruby in color with aromas of raspberry, mint, camphor and oak.. Flavors of plum, ripe raspberry, earth and dried rosemary with impressive structure. Only 200 cases produced.

329  Auros Cabernet Sauvignon 2016
     65
This deeply concentrated Cabernet Sauvignon with dark fruit aromas of cassis, black cherry, dried blueberry, underscored by notes of violet and graphite. The rich full-bodied palate unveils layers of black currant jam, roasted coffee, tobacco, dried fig and vanilla bean. Soft supple tannins frame a plush velvety finish.

437  Mount Veeder Winery Cabernet Sauvignon 2016
     80
86% Cabernet Sauvignon, 9% Merlot, 3% Malbec and 2% Petite Verdot. Wonderfully rich, ripe berries and summer cherry pie on the nose, complemented by hints of earth, cedar, rosemary and dried sage. A supple, well-structured palate that’s full, almost juicy, with a slightly mineral edge.

379  Chappellet Pritchard Hill Vineyard Estate Cabernet Sauvignon 2016
     410
To smell the nose is like angels trumpeting at the Pearly Gates! Conjuring notions of freshly crushed black raspberries, wild blueberries, red and black currant compote and raspberry leaves with subtle hints of roses, violets, tilled soil, cedar box and fragrant earth. Perfumed black and red fruits seemingly dance on the palate with a very firm yet beautifully fine-grained texture and the right amount of freshness. 100 Points, Robert Parker

Washington

The early history of the Washington wine industry can be traced to the introduction of Cinsault grapes by Italian immigrants to the Walla Walla region. The roots of the modern Washington wine industry can been traced to the mid 20th century when a group of professors from the University of Washington turned their home winemaking operation into a commercial endeavor and founded Associated Vintners, which was later renamed Columbia Winery, and focused on producing premium wines. Throughout the rest of the 20th century, the wine world discovered a new aspect of Washington wines with each passing decade.

Today, Washington ranks second in the United States in the production of wine, behind California.

Blend of Cabernet Sauvignon, Syrah and Merlot. Sleek and seductive, with a lively feel to the effusive currant and cherry flavors, echoing on the lithe finish.
Oregon

Wine has been produced in Oregon since the Oregon Territory was settled in the 1840s. Wine production stopped in the United States during Prohibition and as in other states, the Oregon wine industry lay dormant for thirty years after it was repealed. The Oregon wine industry started to rebuild in the 1960s, when California winemakers opened several vineyards in the state. Since then, the state of Oregon has established an international reputation for its production of wine.

Wines of South America

Wine and winemaking in South America has a longer history than anywhere else in the New World. In the mid 1500’s, Jesuit missionaries brought viticulture to South America. This introduction began in Chile and continued to Argentina. Unlike Spain and California, South America’s growing season is very different because of it’s location in the southern hemisphere. South America’s growing season lasts from budbreak in October to harvest beginning sometime in February, whereas Spain and California’s growing season lasts from April to September.

The Southern Hemisphere has been producing wine for hundreds of years, yet it has been only in the past two decades that wines from Australia, New Zealand, Argentina, Chile and South Africa have truly reached an international market. Inspired by European tradition and originally planted by European émigrés, each country’s viticulture has adapted to the climate and the culture of the host country. South America’s growing season lasts from budbreak in October to harvest beginning sometimes in February, whereas Spain and California’s growing season lasts from April to sometime in September.

South America is also unique in the wine world for the absence of the phylloxera threat that has devastated vineyards across the globe. Unlike Chile, the phylloxera louse is present in Argentina but is a particular weak biotype that doesn't survive long in the soil. When it does attack vines, the damage is not significant enough to kill the vine and the roots eventually grow back.

The wine producing nations of South America are making progress to improve the quality of their wines. While Chilean wines are better known on the foreign market, Argentina is increasing the quality of its wines and is making a global impact. As well as these two countries, there is also a small amount of wine coming out of Uruguay.
Wines of Chile

Chilean wine region has a long viticulture history for a New World wine region dating to the 16th century. In the early 1980s, a renaissance began in wine making and wine exports grew very quickly as quality wine production increased. The number of wineries has grown from 12 in 1995 to over 70 in 2005. Chile is now the fifth largest exporter of wines in the world, and the ninth largest producer. Despite its nearly 500 years of winemaking heritage, Chile’s wine industry is fresh, young, and boldly evolving to meet the needs of today’s demanding world markets. Chilean wines are now available in more than 90 countries on 5 continents, and sales continue to grow.

Wines of Argentina

Argentine wine, as with some aspects of the cuisine, has its roots in Spain. During the Spanish colonization of the Americas, vine cuttings were brought to Santiago del Estero in 1557, and the cultivation of the grape and wine production began. Until the early 1990s, Argentina produced more wine than any other country outside Europe, though the majority of it was considered unexportable. However, the desire to increase exports fueled significant advances in quality. Today, Argentina is one of the world’s largest wine-producing countries - fifth worldwide in production and eighth in wine consumption. The continued trend of the industry is to control yields and increase quality by crafting flavorful wines that fit virtually any budget.

Bodega Catena Zapata
Founded in 1902 by Italian immigrant Nicola Catena, remains under control today of the 3rd generation Nicolas Catena and his 4th generation daughter Laura. Nicolas began the measured approach to the viniculture that has taken it’s place in history as the pioneer of Malbec and high-altitude viticulture in Argentina. Catena wines were first launched in 1992 and set a new standard for quality in South America. Below are a few of their wines.

Brilliant golden color. Powerful and mature, with notes of nutmeg, peach jam and dried apricots together with undertones of hydrocarbons. Full-bodied, concentrated, very sweet, minerally, intense on retronasal, with nuances of minerals and candied fruit. This viscous white offers orange peel, honey, coconut and spice flavors, sweet, with just enough acidity to keep it lively. Not heavy, but intense. Long finish with memories of citrus fruits. Only 50 cases imported! 94 points, Wine Advocate

This is an excellent red sweet wine. Grapes were naturally over ripened to the perfect point to be harvested. The alcoholic fermentation was stopped to leave the residual sugars that give the sweetness, smoothness and character to the wine.

829  Kunde “Robusto” Late Harvest Zinfandel Port 2003, Sonoma
     80

This style of Zinfandel speaks for itself - full bodied and unapologetic in its intensity and flavor.

Fans of 'robust' old-vine Zin will appreciate the blackberry-raspberry fruit flavors and the power of this big, ripe, full flavored wine. Only 460 cases made.

392  Meyer Family Port N/V
     500 ml  45

A 1987 modified solera of Zinfandel port wine. Averaging 11 years old, the port displays aromas of baked fruit and cooking spice, along with warm, lush flavors of sweet cassis and brandied cherries.

Packs a wallop, with extracted dark berry flavors and muscle. Aromas of cassis, currant and Blackberry offer more promise. Cabernet Sauvignon, Petite Verdot, Merlot, Malbec and Cabernet Franc. 93 points, Wine Spectator

Bin 918  Quintessa 2011

- 95

An intense nose of fresh cherries, currants and red plum accentuate the complex aromas of crushed ver rock, sandalwood and cloves. Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot, Cabernet Franc and Petit Verdot aged 21 months in French Oak.
Aromas of bright cherry, blackberry and blueberry, with cedar spice and notes of fresh herbs and spring flowers. This wine expresses harmony between fruit and earth. Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot, Cabernet Franc, Petit Verdot and Carmenere aged 21 months in French Oak.

Opus One was founded in 1978 as a joint venture between Robert Mondavi and Baroness Phillippine de Rothschild of Château Mouton Rothschild. The creation of this winery venture was big news in the wine industry - de Rothschild’s involvement added an air of respectability to the Napa Valley wine region which was growing rapidly at the time. Ultimately, this partnership united wine’s first families from California and France to create one of the world’s great wines in quality, elegance and stature.
Opus One is a blend of five Bordeaux red varieties planted within the vineyards – Merlot, Cabernet Franc, Malbec and Petit Verdot, in addition to Cabernet Sauvignon. But since it’s first vintage in 1979, and every vintage that followed, the wine has contained at least 80% Cabernet Sauvignon, making it truly a Cabernet Sauvignon whether it is labeled as one or not.

356 Opus One 1998

375 ml
Tight and grapey, dark in color, this is immense, if young and a bit unfocused. Still the raw ingredients indicate this will be a very successful, potentially outstanding Opus.

357 Opus One 1999
180
An exquisite, complex, stylish wine, wearing a cloak of earthy, leathery tannins around flavors of mineral, currant, earth and blackberry. Gains intensity and shows its depth and concentration on the finish, which is long and detailed. 17 months, new French Oak.

360 Opus One 2000
375ml
175
Moderate to deep ruby color. Aromas of sandalwood, leather, caramel, roasted almonds, and hints of anise. Soft and plush in the mouth, this wine offers flavors of plums and black licorice supported by sweet tannins and a long, intense finish.

444 Opus One 2001
375ml
175
Scents of red currant, red licorice, wild berry, sage and fresh earth fold together nicely in this ripe, intense, tightly wound young Cabernet. Well-focused, deep and complex, with dry, earthy tannins on the finish. Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot, Malbec, Cabernet Franc and Petit Verdot.

433 Opus One 2002
375ml
175
Aromas of ripe cherry and plum turn austere, dry and tannic on the palate, making this a candidate for decanting, but also raising the question of whether the fruit will survive the tannins.
Opus One was founded in 1978 as a joint venture between Robert Mondavi and Baroness Phillippine de Rothschild of Château Mouton Rothschild. Mixing flavors of mocha, currant, plum, licorice, spice and cedary oak. Well proportioned, showing a grip of fine grained tannins that will benefit cellaring. Combination of Cabernet Sauvignon, Cabernet Franc, Merlot, Petit Verdot and Malbec.

Opus One 2014
80% Cabernet Sauvignon, 7% Petite Verdot, 6% Cabernet Franc, 5% Merlot and 2% Malbec.
18 months in new French Oak barrels. Subtle aromas of fragrant florals, fresh garden herbs and forest floor that gives way to a concentrated blend of red cherry, blackberry and black currant.

Opus One 2015
165
Pure, rich dark berry, plum and gravelly earth flavors are framed by spicy cedary oak notes. Ending long, clean and elegant.

Big Bottles

Large format bottles of wine are often shied away from because they are viewed as a collector’s item. However, this format is superior to regular sized bottles for maturing wine, because the ratio of air to liquid is lower in larger formats, allowing the wine to age more slowly, which allows a wine to reach its full potential.
The Gonzmart Family & Columbia Restaurant truly believe one of our large format bottles of wine can add a unique touch to a special evening. It allows our guests a rare opportunity to share one bottle of wine with more of their friends & family!

Magnums

This fleshy red shows cherry, raspberry, prune, earth and herbal flavors and thick tannins, with a spicy tobacco finish. A bit rustic, but generous, and a good match for hearty dishes.

Ripe and fleshy, this red offers plum, raisin, mineral and coffee flavors on a generous frame. The finish carries expressive spice and floral notes.

Harmony and finesse mark this elegant red. Offers black cherry, toast and spice flavors over firm tannins, with grace that hides it’s intensity. A lovely wine in a modern style.

This wine shows formidable concentration. Intense nose of black fruits with mineral and balsamic complex aromas which develops with air. On palate the wine has a sweet attack, it is full-bodied with big and jammy fruit, ripe and packed tannins, and a lot of nuances. Deep and exuberant.

Suave yet intense, this alluring red marries a velvety texture with focused flavors of blackberry, cassis and bitter chocolate. The tannins are firm yet well-integrated, the toasty oak and clean acidity balanced and harmonious.

balsamic acidity. Powerful in the modern style. 95 Points, Wine Spectator

California

Red Wine

538 Marimar Torres Pinot Noir 1995, Sonoma 3 Liter
475
A delicious young Pinot Noir from a distinguished California vineyard, delivering ripe, rich and supple black cherry, wild berry, plum and spice flavors that are well focused, deep and lively. The wine finishes with just the right amount of tannin, and the aftertaste is rich and complex.

499 Caymus Special Selection Cabernet Sauvignon 2012 3 Liter
925
A rich, dense ruby color, hints at the dark fruit nose of blackberry and currant that carries through the palate, interwoven with complex aromas of black licorice, anise, and crème de cassis. On the palate, the wine opens up to reveal an earthiness with brown spice, cigar box and riope dark fruits that linger throughout the extracted and long finish.

630 Caymus Cabernet Sauvignon 2017 3 Liter
560
Offers layered and lush aromas and flavors of cocoa, cassis and ripe dark berries. Smooth and polished, well appointed. Oak stays tender on the palate. This vintage is as stellar as any of the wineries latest offerings.

553 Quintessa 2015 3 Liter
750
Opening aromas of blackcherry and black currant, the wine expands in the glass as notes of Clove, bay leaves and dark chocolate layering on top of crushed rock, graphite an red earth. A very seductive wine. A blend of Cabernet Suavignon, Merlot, Cabernet Franc, Petite Verdot and Carmenere. 95 Points, Robert Parker

Big Bottles

Imperial

A large format bottle that holds 6.0 Liters of wine, or the equivalent of eight standard size bottles of wine.

Methuselah is the same size as an Imperial but that term is usually only used for sparkling wines. The contents in the bottle is not the only thing that makes these two terms different, you will also find a difference in the shape of the bottle. The bottle of an Imperial tends to be Bordeaux-shaped while a Methuselah is usually Burgandy-shaped.

Game and mineral notes are strong in this rich red, but are balanced by a core of ripe fruit and Smoky toasty oak. An assertive style that will have its partisans.

GLOSSARY

Spanish Wine Terms

Amontillado – After the flor dies or is killed off by an extra addition or spirit, the resulting fino is known as an amontillado once it has aged for a period of time, usually ten years or more. Most are dry, although some brands bottle them with a touch of sweetness.

Añejo – A new term designating any Spanish wine that has been aged a minimum of 24 months in oak barrels. The term can be applied only to a Vino de la Tierra wine or better.

Bodega – A generic term meaning winery, but sometimes applied to wine shops or cellars.

Cava – The term is reserved for those sparkling wines that are made by the classic method used to make Champagne. By law, European countries can’t use the term méthode champenoise, so in Spain the term método tradicional or método clasico is placed on the bottle instead.

Cosecha – Harvest or vintage.

Criadera – A collection of vintage wines in barrels making up the younger part of a solera (see below).

Crianza – Any DO or DOC red wine that has been aged a minimum of 24 months, with six months in barrel. In the regions of avarra, Rioja, and Ribera del Duero, that minimum barrel time is one year. White wines must be a year old, with six months in barrel.

DO – “Denominación de Origen” was the top of Spain’s very short ladder of wines until 1988. The term is comparable to France’s AOC (Appellation d’Origine Contrôlée), and all DOs have regulatory bodies, Consejos Reguladores, that are responsible for creating the definition of each DO.

Doble Pasta – a powerful wine made using methods similar to Italy’s ripasso, that is, the addition of grape skins to a finished or fermenting wine.

DOC – “Denominación de Origen Calificada” was created in 1988, following Spain’s entry into the EC. The national committee determines which DO’s are deserving of DOC status. For the first 15 years, only Rioja earned that title. In 2003, Priorat was awarded its DOC, fulfilling all requirements, including that its wines cost at least double that of the national average for DO wines. With this and other DOC rules in place, it may be some time before the other DOC hopefuls, such as Ribera del Duero, Bierzo, and Toro, can gain this premium designation as well.

Fino – A light, dry, aperitif-style sherry.

Flor – The beneficial yeast film that forms inside a barrel of fino-style sherry.

Fondillón – Sweet wine made of Monastrell grapes with 16 to 18% alcohol, from the Levante region.

Gran Reserva – Any DO or DOC wine that has been aged a minimum of five years, with one and a half years in barrel. In the regions of Navarra, Rioja, and Ribera del Duero, that minimum barrel time is two years. White wines must be four years old, with six months in barrel.

Joven – A term applied to any DO or DOC wine; typically the wine sees little or no time in oak and is sold as a fresh and fruity wine.

Manzanilla – Another light, dry, aperitif-style Sherry. If a fino Sherry is aged in the windy, coastal town of Sanlúcar de Barrameda, it is called manzanilla to differentiate it from other, less delicate fino Sherries.

Noble – A new term used to designate a wine with at least 12 months in oak barrels. The term can be applied only to a Vino de la Tierra wine or better.

Oloroso – A type of Sherry that is naturally dry but is often blended with Pedro Ximénez (PX) or other sweetening agents to produce a sweet style.

GLOSSARY

Spanish Wine Terms
Orujo – The Spanish form of grappa or marc, a distillate made from grape pomace.

Pago or DO Pago – A classification created in 2003 for a single estate, which designates that Pago (vineyard-estate) as a fine producer of wine. The Pago is allowed to set its own rules for grapes and production. All grape growing, vinification, and bottling must take place on the estate.

Palo Cortado – A rare type of Sherry, usually completely dry, which lies between an amontillado and an oloroso.

Rancio – A high-intensity wine with distinct oxidative flavors and usually with more than 16 percent alcohol.

Reserva – Any DO or DOC wine that has been aged a minimum of 36 months, with one year in barrel. White wines must be two years old, with six months in barrel.

Roble – Literally “oak,” but this term can appear upon a label, most often, of a Joven wine; it informs the buyer that the wine has spent at least a little time in barrel.

Rosado – Rosé or pink wine, made from red grapes fermented with little or no time on their color-laden skins; hence the wine is white or rosé in color.

Solera – A dynamic aging process, practiced in Jerez and Montilla-Moriles, whereby younger and older wines are aged and blended together in a proscribed manner.

VCIG – “Vinos de Calidad con Indicación Geográfica” was created to act as a way station between those areas that were stuck at the Vino de la Tierra level and underneath the DO status. After five years as a VCIG, the region can apply to be promoted to a DO.

Vendimia – Harvest or vintage.

Viejo – A wine with a minimum of 36 months in barrel, and showing an “oxidative” character. The term can be applied only to a Vino de la Tierra wine or better.

Vinos de Autor – Classical wines with an added dimension: wines made from selected grapes (from old vines, from a single vineyard, or from specials parcels or plots), usually featuring plenty of new oak, produced in limited quantities, and sold in a special packaging. Also known as High Concept wines, Signature wines, or Flagship wines.

VT – “Vino de la Tierra” wine is a level above Vino de Mesa, it means “wine of the country”; this designation emulates France’s Vins de Pays and offers a wine of a particular place, but with few requirements of grape varieties, yields, site, or, especially, aging.

Vino de Mesa – “Table Wine.” The lowest-quality of wine produced in Spain.

Vitivinicultor – A new term used to describe a Spanish winemaker who is both the grower and the maker of the wine, the equivalent of the French term vigneron. (Interestingly, the Spanish had to invent a new word to describe the person who is responsible for all aspects of the creation of the wine. In the past, these roles have been compartmentalized in the large companies. And small companies have not been part of the landscape of important Spanish wine until recently.)

VOS – “Vinum optimum signatum” or “very old Sherry” is a new Sherry term used to guarantee that the wine has been aged in barrels a minimum of 20 years. That long time in oak causes a high degree of evaporation, so the VOS designation suggests that the wine is expensive to produce.

VORS – “Vinum optimum rare signatum” or “very old rare Sherry” is a Sherry term used to guarantee that the wine has been aged in barrels a minimum of 30 years. That long time in oak causes a high degree of evaporation, so the VORS designation suggests that the wine is very expensive to produce. These wines are bottles in very limited quantities.

GLOSSARY

Spanish Grape Varieties

White Varieties

Airén – The most widely planted grape in the world, but planted only in the center part of Spain. The million acres of Airén sited in Spain’s Meseta amount to far more than all the acres of Cabernet in the world, as well as any other grape you can name. It is generally used for brandy and for light, simple white wines. Native.

Albariño – Depending upon the vintage and the subregion of Rías Baixas, this indigenous variety of Galicia in the northwest Spain can be rich and expressive, with peach and apricot notes, or tart and bracing, like green apples and lemon peels. Native.

Chardonnay – Grown in many regions, but especially Penedès, Navarra, and Somontano. Foreign.

Godello – A relatively unknown variety that can express depth and character in Valdeorras, and increasingly more in Ribeiro. Think green apples and texture, and in ripe vintages, add some peaches. Native.

Hondarribi – A cause célèbre in some markets, this indigenous variety of Basque Country produces the bracingly tart, txakoli (Chacoli)-style white wine of Basque Country. Native.

Listán – Synonym for Palomino, Sherry’s critical grape.

Loureira – A secondary grape in Galicia that can produce rich peach to apricot aromas in Rías Baixas blends. Foreign.

Macabeo – This is a synonym for Viura, but is known as Macabeo in southern Spain. In the Penedés region it is mainly used for Cava production. Native.

Malvasía – A Greek variety with vibrant aromatic qualities, whether vinified as a dry wine or as a sweet and exotic wine. It used to be more widely planted and used in Rioja but has been eclipsed by Viura there. Foreign.
Moscatel de Alejandría – Good for sweet wines and for tables grapes and raisins, this grape can offer utterly charming dessert wines. Foreign.

Muscat à Petits Grains – High-quality and wildly aromatic dry and sweet wines are made from this grape in southern Spain and throughout the Mediterranean basin. Foreign.

Palomino – The grape of sherry, it can provide the underpinning of the lightest and freshest manzanilla or the richest and most exotic amontillado or oloroso. Also know as Listán. Also used for still white wine in Andalucia. Native.

Pansa Blanca – See Xarel-lo.

Pardina – A variety planted in Extremadura and south central Spain. Native.

Parellada – The bulk ingredient of most Cava and pleasant table wines. Commonly found in Penedés. Native.

Pedro Ximénez – Generally speaking, a variety used in the production of sweet sherry. In Montilla_moriles, this grape can produce great dessert wines, but also a few dry styled wines. Native.

Picapoll – A variety grown in small quantities in Cataluña. Some believe that this is the same grape as France’s Picpoul. Native.

Sauvignon Blanc – Sneaking into Rueda to the detriment of Verdejo, but also showing promise in Penedés. Foreign.

Torrontés – Blended in some Ribeiro and Rías Baixas wines. Not related to the Argentine grape of same name. Native.

Treixadura – A tertiary grape in use in Rías Baixas, it’s usually crisp and lemony. Foreign.

Verdejo – A delightful and textured grape, with citrus elements covering notes of melon, apple, and stone fruits. Often it is blended with Sauvignon Blanc in Rueda. Native.

Viura – A grape that performs differently in different places. In Penedés, especially in Cava production (Macabeo), it’s the fat and friendly part of a blend. But in Rioja or Navarra, you can find partisans who believe it simply requires careful vinification to unlock its character and even longevity. Native.

Xarel-lo – One of the principal constituents of Cava, this surprisingly interesting variety goes into the production of some lovely wines form the slate soils of Alella. It can be the layered and age-worthy part of Cava. Native.

GLOSSARY
Spanish Grape Varieties

Red Varieties

Alicante – Sometimes called Garnacha Tintorera, it’s one of the few grapes to have not only color in the skins but also colored juice. Native.

Aragón – Synonym for Garnacha.

Bobal – Ironically, better known for its blending attributes (big, rich, and cheap) than for its stand-alone abilities, but there are now delicious Bobals being made in the Valencia region. Native.

Cabernet Sauvignon – Planted in Spain once the scourge of phylloxera brought French winemakers to Spain in the nineteenth century. It’s generally tolerated by the DO rules, except in Rioja where it is “illegal.” Nevertheless, you can find small plots of it there too. Foreign.

Cariñena – Known as Carignan in the rest of the world, but its rightful name is Cariñena, just like the eastern Spanish town from which it probably originates. It’s called Mazuela in Rioja and doesn’t get much respect anywhere except in Priorat and Montsant, where old vines can produce a powerful, notable wine. Native.

Cencibel – Synonym for Tempranillo used in La Mancha.

Garnacha – Known as Grenache in the rest of the world, it ought to be called Garnacha, as it originates in Spain, and traveled to southern France in the eight and ninth centuries. The rap on the grape is that it is only great when it’s powerful and alcoholic. That’s not necessarily true, but it does need to grow in a warm spot to display its best character. It’s the critical grape in Priorat, and it is often bottled as a Rosado elsewhere in Spain. It’s the third most planted grape in Spain and the second most planted variety in the world. Native.

Graciano – A very minor player in Rioja but one that has its fans. It can have beautiful aromatics, color, and tannins. Native.

Juan García – Grown in Zamora (in the northwest) but is more about potential than reality. Native.

Listán Negro – A grape that offers excellence on the Canary Islands. Native.

Mazuelo – Synonym for Carinena used in Rioja.

Mencía – Some folks think it’s Cabernet Franc. It’s not, but it’s easy to understand why. It carries the red-cherry intensity and herbal note often found in Cabernet Franc. Like Cabernet Franc, Mencía can often be underwhelming. Even at its best, it is more structured than lush. Native.

Merlot – Lots of enthusiasts for the vine, and lots of new plantings from Navarra to Utiel Requena. Most often, it’s seen as the “blending grape” of Bordeaux, instead of being recognized as the most widely planted grape in Bordeaux and the dominant grape of the ascendant properties of Pomerol and Saint Amilion. It can do good work in Spain as well. Foreign.

Monastrell – Known in the rest of the world as Mourvèdre, it’s a grape of Spanish origin. As in France, it is capable of producing truly great wines, but so few people are focused upon that goal. The grape shows the most promise in Jumilla and Yecla. Native.

Moristel – A light and fruity grape in Somontano that almost never makes serious or powerful wine but can be a charming wine nonetheless. Native.

Pinot Noir – Only a few examples of this grape are successfully made in Spain. While fashions may instigate a new plantings of the grape outside Penedés, there are far more reliable grapes in Spain to focus upon. Foreign.

Syrah – Just as in the rest of the world, this grape is much sought after and happily settles into virtually every region in Spain in which it’s planted. Syrah will become one of the critical players in Spanish red wine. Foreign.

Tempranillo – The reigning indigenous red variety of Spain. Its various clones that are grown in different parts of Spain have very different characteristics; in the south, it ripens early; in Penedés, growers say that it’s low in acidity and doesn’t age well; in Ribera del Duero, it’s an ideal ager with moderate tannins and alcohol; and even Rioja, growers accuse it of low acidity, yet it ages far better than its structure suggests. The variety has performed exceedingly well in the traditional style of Rioja; the soft, modern style of red wine; and also in powerful, rich, international school-style wines.

If Tempranillo still lacks a high profile, it is because it has failed at becoming an internationally successful grape – it tastes dull and boring grown almost everywhere outside of Spain. It grows well at a high altitude and seems to respond well to strong shifts in nighttime and daytime temperatures. Few grapes in the world can offer such an intense range of wines. Native.

Synonyms for Tempranillo:
- Tinto de Madrid – used in DO Vino de Madrid
- Tinta del País – used in DO Ribera del Duero
- Tinta de Toro – used in DO Toro
- Tinto Fino – used in DO Ribera del Duero
- Ull de Llebre – used in Cataluña
